Home Industry

Mr. Editor: I wish to say a few words to your many readers about home industry. We are making progress along this line but the thing we need is to make more progress. It would be well to consider the advancement we have made, for it will serve us as an inspiration to higher and nobler things.

It has been only a few years since people were plowing with wooden foot plow stocks. They made a little corn crop, that is, the average man raised hogs and cattle, he made corn whis-key and fed his hogs with the slop, etc. We lived in little log split boards, stick and clay chimneys and the roads ran straight up and down the hills without any grade whatever. We didn't have any such things as daily mail, piano or telephone. The idea those days was, that the farm was made only for negroes and mules to work on to keep them out of meanness. The man who was able to educate his children would say, 'now children I tion of the county, and no one tions advocating equal pay for able to educate his children want you to go to school and be somebody." When they entered school the teacher would tell them that the thing they need day last week on business.

Would say, now children it the todaty, and no one women doing the same work as men, equal guardianship of children by their father and mother, a single standard of morals for men and women the ed to do was to get through I want to ask some of the laschool and be a lawyer, doctor, dies who read The Sentinel to from 14 to 21 years, compulsory Notice of Stockholders' Meeting merchant, politician or in some professional business. The girl that went to school made the wife of the doctor, merchant or lawyer, but the poor man's children would marry and build a little log hut down on the branch, coon and possum hunt for a living. But thank God, we have seen the light at last, we have learned

S. C. Women Organize Suffrage League

Women from all parts of the State met in Spartanburg Friday and organized the Equal Suffrage League of South Carolina, the purpose of which is to win votes for women. Miss Lavania Engle, representing a national woman's suffrage association, addressed the gathering. She said thorough organization of the suffrage forces must be accomplished throughout the nation before the suffragists' appeal for the ballot would be seriously considered by congress.

Officers were elected as follows: President, Mrs. M. T. Grove-Other Items Coleman, Abbeyille; first vice president, Mrs John Gary Evans, Spartanburg; second vice president, Mrs. J. L.
